It's not easy to find an affordable hotel room in Paris, let alone a very stylish one, but MOB House is an exception. Located just outside of northern Paris in the bohemian suburb of Saint-Ouen, which is home four days a week to Europe's largest antique market. Inside you'll find industrial-chic rooms designed by Philippe Starck and a relaxed communal area with a bar, dining and co-working spaces. In the summer, locals come to share the outdoor space, including a small pool. The sister MOB Hotel has rooms at a lower price point.
